ONWARD

Inside the comprehensive English Text Books for classes from 1 to 8, facilitates the budding learners to communicate in English not only in their interdisciplinary pursuits at school but also in real-life situations. The approach of these books is child oriented and activity based. The syllabus that links the basic skills such as reading, writing, listening, speaking and comprehension with grammar and vocabulary, making it more holistic and discussion friendly.

The entire fabric of the course is designed in such a way that the impressionable pupils are able to have a good command of English besides the momentous inculcation of positive attitudes and values in them. The texts included in the series have been carefully selected and graded.

This edition is designed to enhance, enjoy and appreciate the literature. Keeping in mind the varied needs of modern learners the series includes insightful questionnaire on the disciplinary and value based education under various skills like comprehension, word building, written work, communication.

Exercises are given at the end of each lesson which will engage the students individually. The basic idea is how we can make children to understand things through self-involvement and self-absorption rather than relying of one sided discourses in the monotonous classrooms.

We sincerely hope that this unique English series will enable the learners to excel in English and empowering them to achieve their cherished goals.

Talkative Tortoise

"Take me with you, please," called Fred, the tortoise, to a grey swan and a white swan that were flying over.

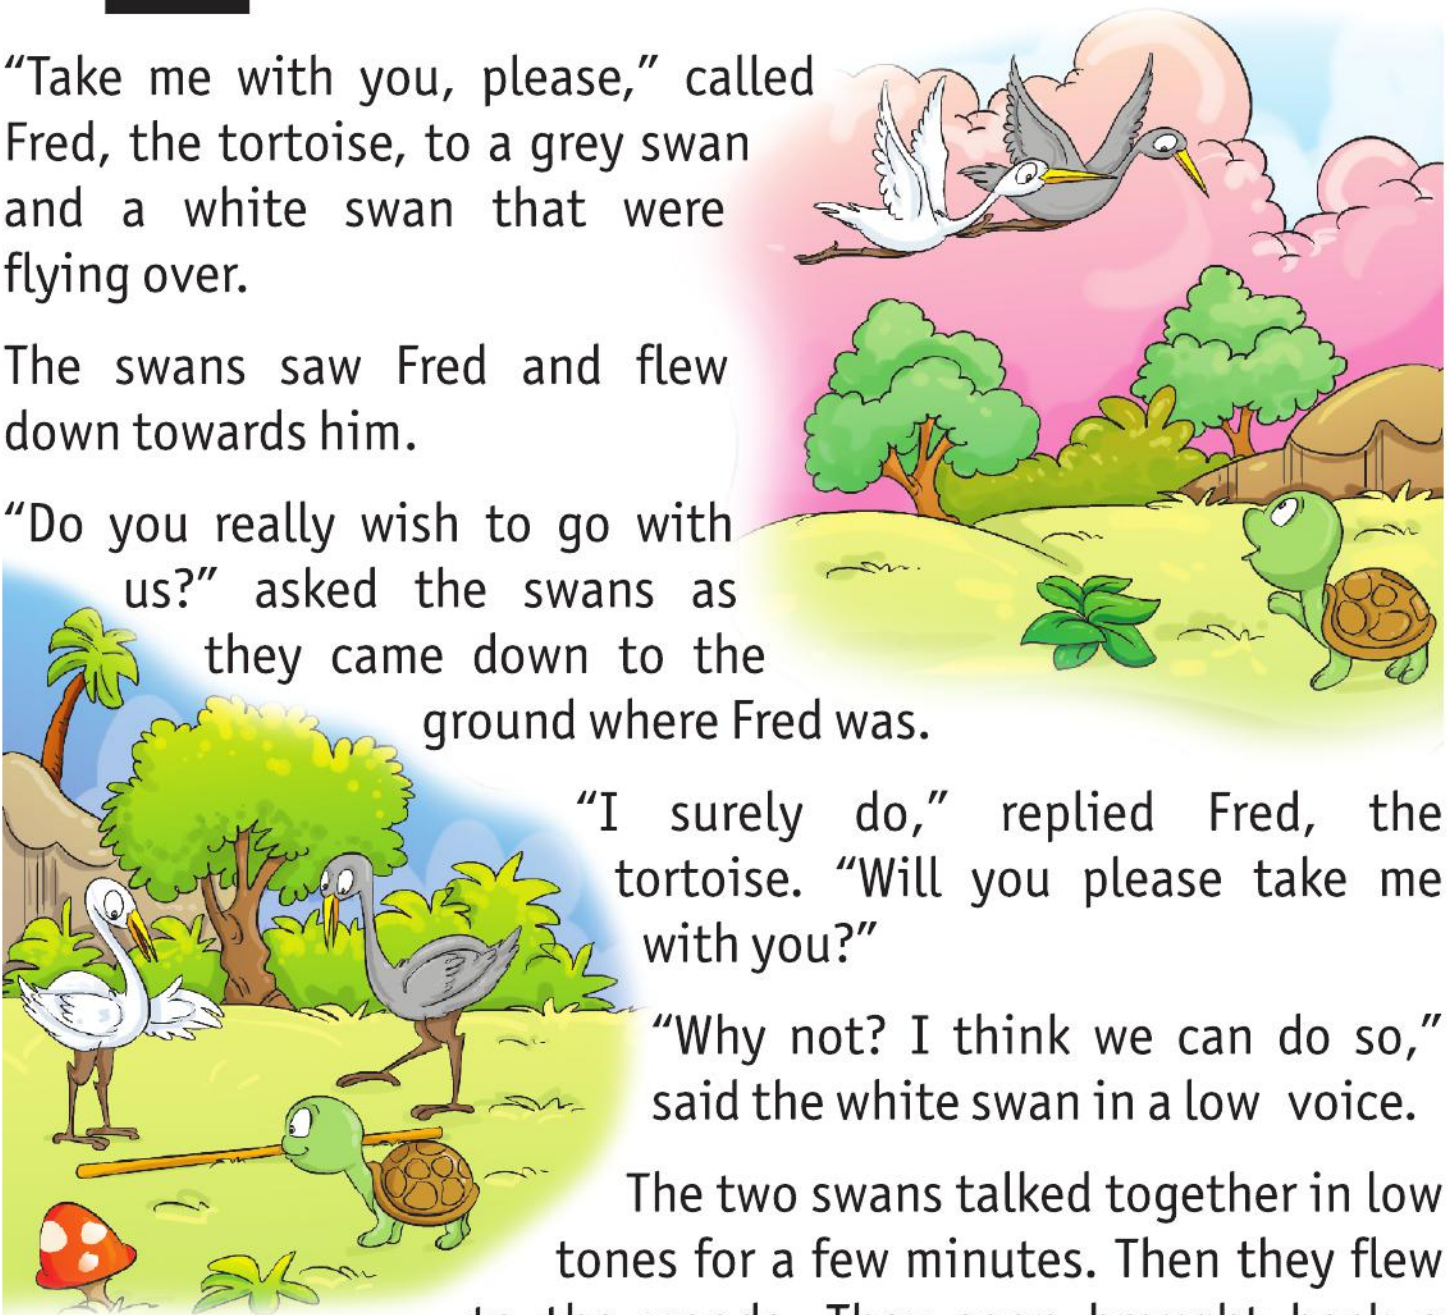

The swans saw Fred and flew down towards him.

"Do you really wish to go with us?" asked the swans as they came down to the ground where Fred was.

"I surely do," replied Fred, the tortoise. "Will you please take me with you?"

"Why not? I think we can do so," said the white swan in a low voice.

The two swans talked together in low tones for a few minutes. Then they flew to the woods. They soon brought back a strong twig and dropped it in front of Fred.

"Now," said the swans, "If we take you off to see the world, you must promise us one thing."

"What is that?" asked Fred. "I will promise almost anything if you let me come with you."

"You must promise not to say one word while you are in the air, NOT ONE WORD," replied the swans.

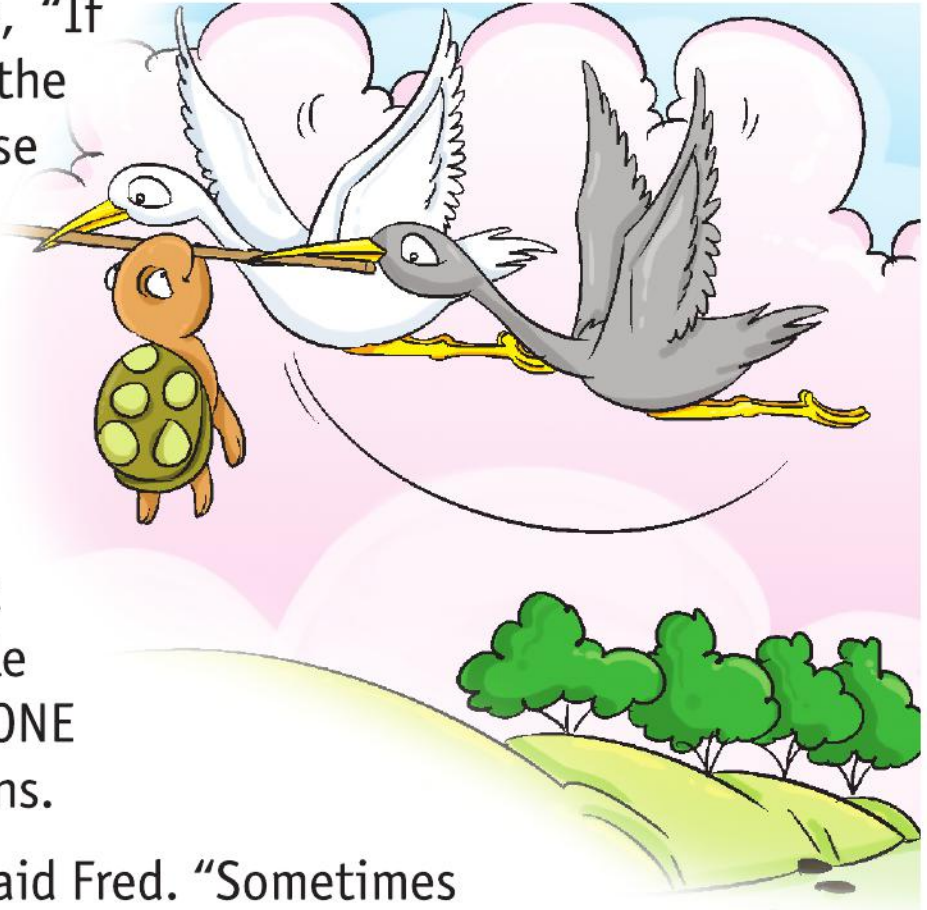

"All right, I promise," said Fred. "Sometimes I do not say a word for the whole day because there is no one to listen to me."

"Well, take firm hold of the middle of the twig; we are ready to start," said the grey swan.

"If you value your life, you must hold on to it tightly," said the white swan.

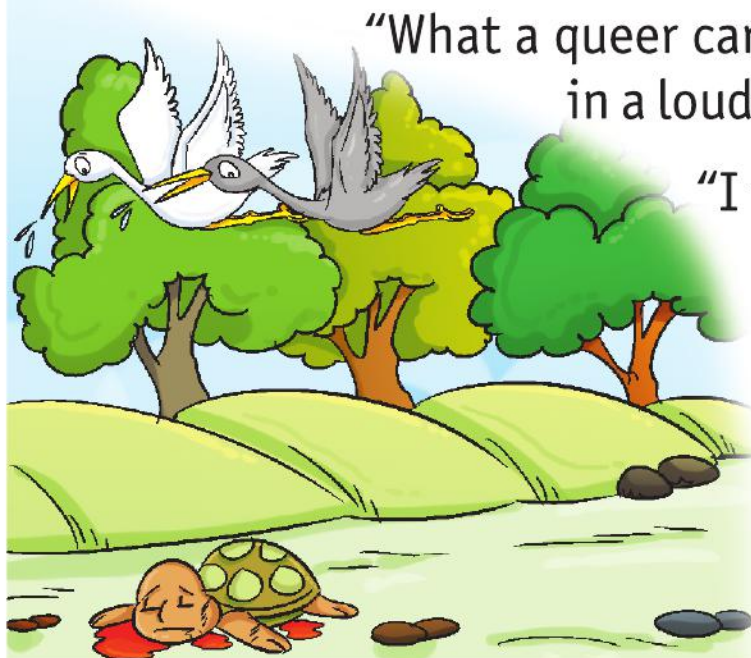

Fred took hold of the middle of the twig, and the swans took hold of one end each.

Then they flew up! up! up! Fred swung from the middle of the twig, was enjoying it or not, only he could know. He never had such a ride before.

They had gone a long way safely when they came to a hay field. The haymakers looked up and saw the swans and Fred in the air.

“Ho! Ho! The tortoise has stolen some wings,” called one of the haymakers.

“What a queer carriage he has!” laughed another in a loud voice.

“I pity his horses,” said another.

This made Fred, the tortoise, so angry that he cried out, “You”— but no one knows what he was going to say, for at once he fell off the twig - kerplunk - to the ground.

New Words to Learn

strong – physically powerful, twig – a small thin branch of a tree, hay – dried grass for animal food, queer – strange.

The Little Red Hen

Little Red Hen lived in a big farmyard with her six chickens. She was very laborious. A cat, a dog and a duck also lived in the same farmyard. They were friends. But all of them were lazy fellows. They didn't like to work.

One day, Little Red Hen found some grains of wheat. She wanted to sow the grains and grow some wheat.

"Who will sow this wheat?" she said to her friends.

"Not I," said the cat.

"Not I," said the dog.

"Not I," said the duck.

"I will do it myself then," said Little Red Hen. Then she planted the grains of wheat.

After some days, new plants grew out from the wheat.

"Who will water the corn?" Little Red Hen said to her friends.

"Not I," said the cat.

"Not I," said the dog.

"Not I," said the duck.

"I will water it myself then," said Little Red Hen, and she watered the little plants.

When the wheat was ripe she said, "Who will cut the corn?"

"Not I," said the cat.

"Not I," said the dog.

"Not I," said the duck.

"I will cut it myself then," said Little Red Hen, and she cut the corn.

Now, she wanted to grind the corn. So she asked her friends, "Who will grind the corn?"

"Not I," said the cat.

"Not I," said the dog.

"Not I," said the duck.

"I will grind it myself then," Little Red Hen said, and she ground the corn.

"Now who will bake the cake?" Little Red Hen asked her friends.

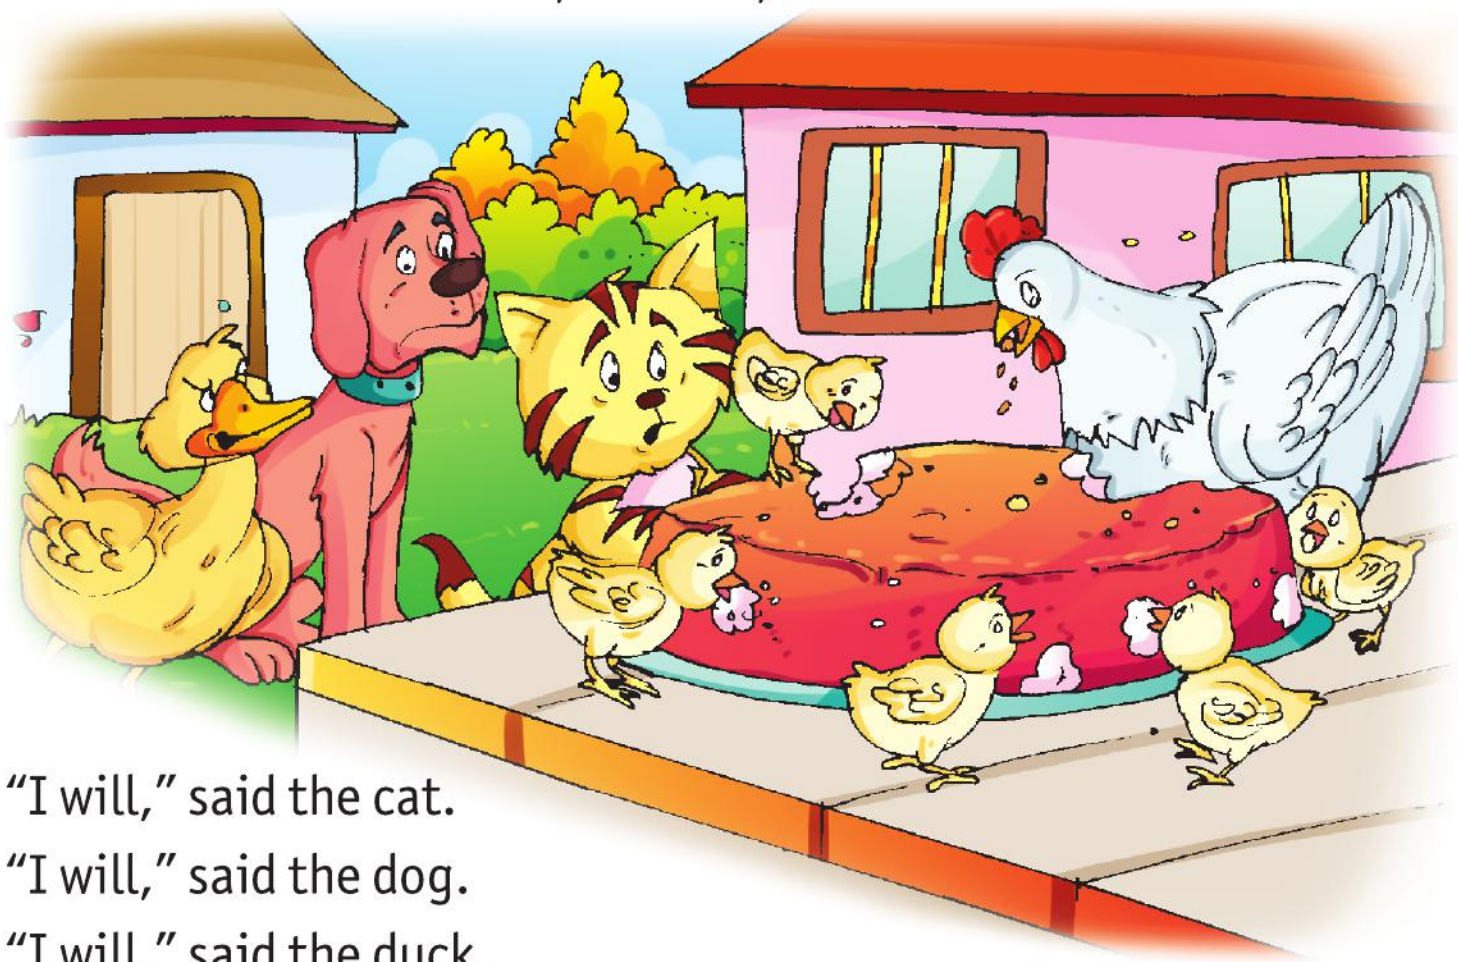

"Not I," said the cat.

"Not I," said the dog.

"Not I," said the duck.

"I will bake it myself then," said Little Red Hen, and she baked a big, round cake.

When the cake was baked, she said, "Who will eat this cake?"

"I will," said the cat.

"I will," said the dog.

"I will," said the duck.

"Oh, no, you won't," said Little Red Hen. "I shall eat it with my chicks. Cluck! Cluck!"

And she ate the big, round cake with her chickens.

farmyard – a place where animals are kept, laborious – hardworking, lazy – idle, grow – produce, grain – wheat, sow – plant under the soil, watered – gave water, ripe – ready, grind – mince; crush, bake – roast in the oven

The Tiger and the Little Bee

Once upon a time, there was a tiger. He was very cruel. All the animals were afraid of him.

One day the tiger was taking rest under a tree. A bee came buzzing by. This sound disturbed the tiger. He became very angry. He said to the bee, "Hey! You little bee! Go away from here."

The bee was not afraid. It replied, "Why should I go away? I am not afraid of you."

The tiger lifted his paw to catch the bee but the bee flew off. The paw struck his own cheek. It began to bleed. "Oouch!" The tiger cried out in pain.

The bee came back. It sat on the tiger's nose. The tiger lifted his other paw and struck hard.

The bee flew away. The tiger's nose began to bleed.

The tiger roared loudly. All the animals came running. When they saw the condition of the tiger, they began to laugh.

The tiger felt insult. But he was helpless. He left place quietly.

The bee called out from behind, "My friend! Don't be so proud of your strength. Everyone is great in his own day."

The tiger heard it. He was ashamed.

Good News

It was a fine morning. A fat rooster was crowing from the top of a wall. A fox was passing that way. He heard the rooster crowing.

“What a delicious breakfast it would be!” The fox said to himself as he looked at the rooster.

Fox : Hi Friend, What a beautiful morning! Why are you sitting on such a high wall? Why don't you get down and have a chat with me?

Rooster : Chat ... and with you!

Fox : Yes, because we are all friends now.

Rooster : Friends! Impossible! How can that be?

Fox : Not impossible, indeed. I think you might not have heard the good news so far.

Rooster : Good news! What is that?

Fox : The good news is that from today all the animals and birds are friends.

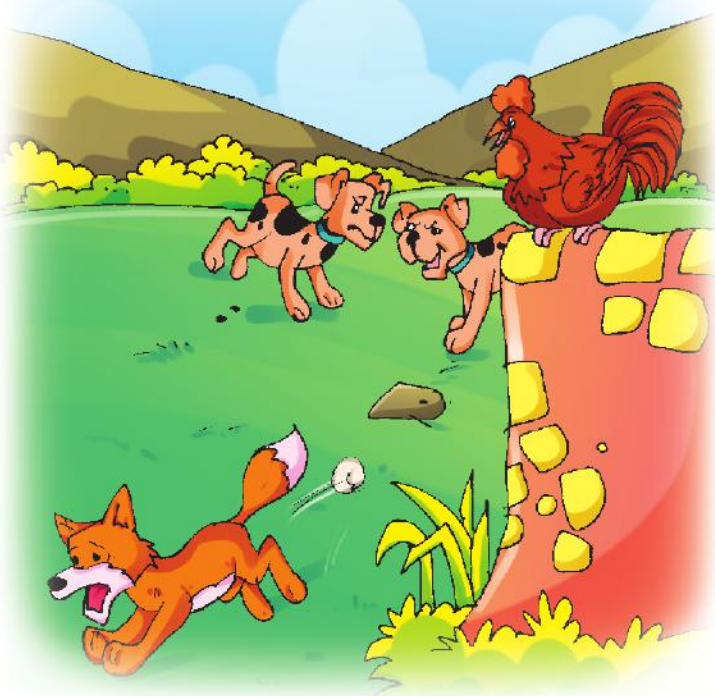

Rooster : Really! But how can I believe you?

Fox : Really! You believe me and come down. Nobody will harm anybody. No animal will eat anyone.

Rooster : What a good news!

Fox : Yes, it's really a good news. Now foxes and roosters are friends. So why not to get down?

Rooster : (turning his neck to the other side): Aha, friend fox! What I see there!

Fox : (a little alert): What do you see over there?

Rooster : I can see that more of our friends are coming to join us.
We shall enjoy their company too.

Fox : Just tell me who they are.

Rooster : A pair of hounds! I hope they are coming to meet us.

Fox : Sorry, friend, I'll not stay here anymore. Let me run off.

Rooster : Why friend? Let's have a nice get together.

Fox : But friend, I am afraid they might not have heard the good news so far.

(The fox runs away from there and the rooster laughs with a long 'Cock-a-doodle-doo.')

Timmy Goes for Shopping

Timmy is a little boy. He is only five years old. But he is very smart and intelligent. Timmy lives in a small house. Besides Timmy, his father, mother and his younger sister Lisa also live in that house. The house looks very beautiful. There is a small garden in front of the house. In the afternoon, Timmy and Lisa play in the garden. Their pet dog, Jimmy also plays with them.

One day, Timmy wanted to buy a top. The other day, he had seen one in the shop. His mother gave him ten rupees. Timmy went to the market with the money in his pocket.

Timmy reached the market. He walked along the rows of shops. There were all kinds of shops.

Timmy saw many new things in those shops. But he moved on and on. He wanted to find a toy shop.

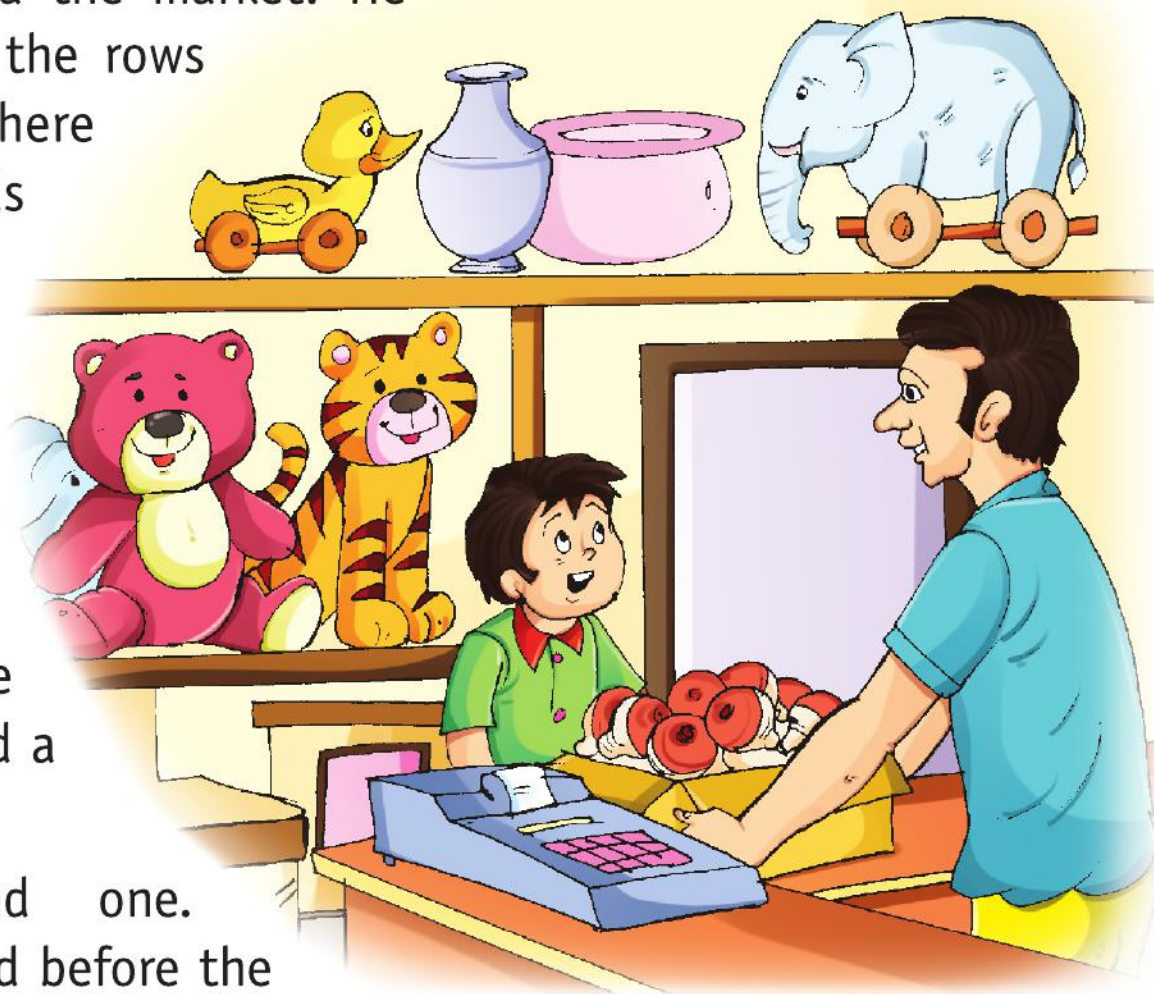

Soon he found one.

Timmy stopped before the shop. It was a big toy shop. Timmy saw many beautiful toys in the showcase. There were monkeys, motor cars, toy trains, Barbie dolls, helicopters and what not! But Timmy wanted a top.

He hesitated for a moment and then went in. The owner of the shop was a kind-looking young gentleman. He welcomed Timmy with a broad smile.

“Do you have tops in your shop?” Timmy asked the shopkeeper.

“Oh yes, I have” said the gentleman and went inside. Soon he came out with a big box. It was full of tops. There were tops of all colours and sizes. Some tops were plain. Some tops had stripes on them. Timmy had never seen so many tops in his life.

Timmy looked on and on. He couldn't decide which one to buy. All the tops were so beautiful! Then Timmy saw a top with bright red and green colour. He liked it in the first sight. "This one please," pointing to the top he said.

The shopkeeper smiled. He wrapped the top in a beautiful piece of paper and gave it to Timmy. He took the packet and gave the money to the shopkeeper. Then he said 'thank you' to the shopkeeper and left for home. Now he had the most beautiful top in the world.

The Animals Go for a Picnic

All the animals in the zoo have decided to go for a picnic on Sunday. They will go to the riverside. Mr Elephant has been made the leader of the group. He is planning for the lunch.

"Mr Lion, will you bring the meat?" he asks the lion.

"Yes, I will," says Mr Lion.

"Mr Squirrel, you can arrange for some nuts," says Mr Elephant.

"I will," says Mr Squirrel.

In the meantime, Mrs Duck also comes there and joins in the discussion. Mr Elephant tells her about the picnic. She is so happy.

"What shall I bring?" asks Mrs Duck.

"You can bring some lotus flowers. We will decorate the place with red and white lotus flowers. It would make the picnic spot beautiful," says Mr. Elephant.

"Yes, I can. There is plenty of lotus flowers in the pond. I shall bring some from there." says Mrs Duck.

"I will bring bananas," says Mr Monkey. "There are many ripe bananas I have seen the other day."

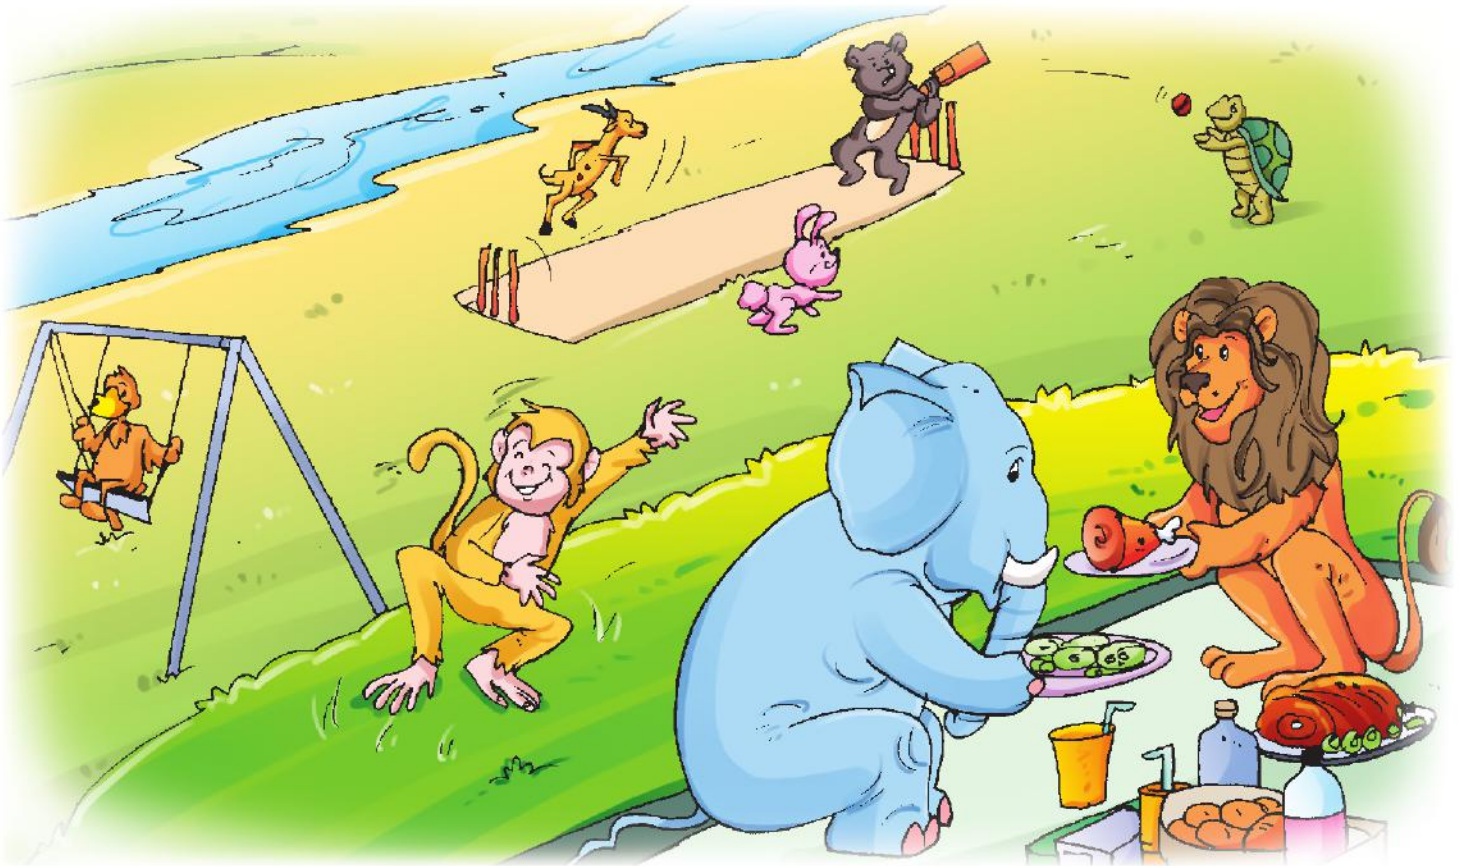

"Oh, that will be so lovely!" Nods Mr Elephant. His trunk goes up and down as he nods.

Ms Fluffy, the she dog, comes forward. "What shall I bring? My master is a baker. He makes good sandwiches. Shall I bring some?" she asks.

"Yes, yes. What a good idea! We all like sandwiches," says Miss Pussy, the Cat. "I will bring some cream to put on top. Yummy!"

"There's a park for animals near the river. The park is very beautiful. There are many trees and flowers in the park. There is also a green grass field in the middle of the park. There is also a slide, a see-saw, a swing and a sandpit in the park. We can play many games there. Don't forget to bring your bat and ball," says Mr Elephant.

On Sunday, all the animals gather at the park. First, they play cricket. Soon they feel very thirsty. Ms Rabbit has a flask of juice and some carrots. She gives a sip to everyone.

Then they play on the see-saw, slide and swing. Mr Elephant tries to swing and the swing breaks. Ms Fluffy laughs. "Eat carrots, Mr Elephant, you'll- be slim like me," teases Ms Rabbit.

After some time, the animals sit together under the shade of a big tree and enjoy their lunch. Mr Monkey dances and all the animals sing in chorus. What a lovely picnic!

In the evening, they go back. "It was a lot of fun!" says Mr Elephant. Everybody supports him.

10 Noble Deeds Never Go Waste

Miku was a baby monkey. He was very naughty. He loved to eat. He was always in search of something or the other to lay his hands on. One day, he went to the market. In the market, he saw many shops. There were cloth shops, sweet shops and fruit shops. He stopped before a fruit shop.

Some watermelons were kept in front of the shop. Miku looked at them. He wanted to eat one and see how it tastes.

When nobody was, Miku took a big bite of a watermelon. He didn't like it. "Watermelons are not tasty, they are awful!" said Miku.

A calf was standing nearby. He laughed and said, "You found it awful because you ate the rind and the seeds too. You should eat only the pulp."

But Miku did not listen to the calf.

Next, he saw a coconut. He tried to bite the coconut. It was too hard. "Coconuts are awful!" Miku was disgusted.

A crow was sitting on the branch of a nearby tree. The crow heard him. He said, "You found it awful because you tried to eat the shell. You didn't break it. You should eat only the inside." But Miku did not like the crow's advice.

Next, Miku tried his hand on an orange. He took a bite of the orange. It was bitter. "Oranges are awful!" said Miku. He threw away the orange. It fell just in front of a little boy. The boy looked up and saw Miku. He also heard what Miku said. The boy laughed. "You little monkey," said the boy, "You don't know how to eat an orange. Why didn't you peel the orange?"

Then the boy picked up a banana. He peeled it and gave it to Miku.

Miku climbed on the roof of the shop and ate it. 'Woom!' How tasty it was. He enjoyed his banana. When he had finished, he threw away the peel.

He said, "A banana is nice to eat without the peel." Now I shall eat bananas only.

New Words to Learn
