Preface

English Grammar series of 8 books from 1-8 is a child-centric course in English Grammar and Composition for the growing students, specially when they are beginning to learn the basics of language. The arrangement of content is simple and logical. The main emphasis has been laid on making it more interactive and easy to understand. Each & every chapter includes adequate & befitting examples resorting to the maxims of inductive learning.

The basic concepts of grammar have been expounded at length in a very lucid language. Even if students read the elaborations by self, they would feel as if they were being guided by some expert minds.

Thus, the approach is such that both teachers & students can proceed together for a collaborative learning. It is always unjust to ignore away other segments of a language while dealing with any one of them. Vocabulary enhancement, advanced writing skills & reading comprehension have been incorporated into the book to make it thoroughly comprehensive & complete. It would enable them to assess their grammatical accuracy in real life situations.

We believe that the our series will prove to be highly pragmatic for the advanced learners of English Language. Once they develop the requisite insights into the basics of grammar, their academic pursuits will automatically get spurred, paving the way to success forever & ever.

Your valuable suggestions are welcome.

Sentences, Phrases and Clauses

The Sentence

A sentence is a group of words which :

- contains a subject and a predicate
- makes complete sense by itself, i.e. it does not depend on any other word or group of words to do so
- contains a verb.

Look at the following groups of words :

- The dog is barking.
- Please sit at the reception.
- I was carrying a bag full of money.

Each of the above groups of words contains a subject and a predicate.

S. No.	Subject	Predicate
1.	The dog	is barking.
2.	You (it is understood)	sit at the reception.
3.	I	was carrying a bag full of money.

Also, each of the above makes complete sense by itself, so all the above groups of words are sentences.

The Phrase

Look at the following groups of words :

- is barking
- at the reception
- full of money

We observe that none of the above groups makes complete sense by itself. Each of them depends on another group of words to do so. Such a group of words is known as a phrase.

A phrase is a group of words that act together as a single unit but don't contain the things need to form a sentence: a subject and a predicate.

The Clause

Read the following sentences :

1. He jumped over the fence.
2. He ran away.

If we join these two sentences, we get :

He jumped over the fence and ran away.

Since the two sentences have become parts of a larger sentence, we do not call them sentences any longer. We call them clauses.

Thus, a clause is a group of related words which part of a sentence and contains a subject and a predicate.

A sentence can contain one or more clauses.

Examples :

1. The teacher taught the students that the Earth moves around the Sun.
2. Birds were flying in the sky.
3. The fishing boats will return when the Sun sets.

In sentence 1, there are two clauses :

- a. The teacher taught the students.
- b. The Earth moves around the Sun.

In sentence 2, there is only one clause. In sentence 3, there are two clauses :

- a. The fishing boats will return.
- b. The Sun sets.

Kinds of Phrases

There are three kinds of phrases :

1. Adjective phrases
2. Adverb phrases
3. Noun phrases

Adjective Phrase : An adjective phrase is a phrase that acts as an adjective by describing a noun.

Examples :

1. a. The judge was a generous man.
b. The judge was a man of generous nature.
2. a. The valuable document was found yesterday.
b. The document of great value was found yesterday.
3. a. The Russian navy was defeated.
b. The navy of Russia was defeated.

In each of the above pairs of sentences, we first have a single word (generous, valuable, Russian) qualifying the noun and then a group of words (of generous nature, of great value, of Russia) qualifying the same noun.

For example, the group of words of generous nature describes the navy. It, therefore, does the work of an adjective, and is called an adjective phrase.

Similarly, the groups of words of great value and of Russia are adjective phrases.

Adverb Phrase : Sometimes a group of words does the work of an adverb.

Examples :

1. a. She answered rudely. (How?)
b. She answered in a rude manner. (How?)
2. a. He was a magistrate then. (When?)
b. He was a magistrate in those days. (When?)
3. a. God is everywhere. (Where?)
b. God is in every place. (Where?)

In each of the above pairs of sentences, we first have a single word (an adverb) modifying a verb, and then a group of words modifying the same verb.

For example, the group of words 'in a rude manner' tells us how she answered it (the manner). So, it modifies the verb 'answered'. Such a group of words that does the work of an adverb is called an adverb phrase.

Noun Phrase : This is a phrase that acts as a noun in a sentence. A noun or a pronoun and its modifiers make up a noun phrase.

Example : Atlas is a book of maps.

In the above sentence, 'book of maps' is a noun phrase.

A Identify whether the underlined group of words are phrases or clauses:

1. When I joined this school, I was in class V.
2. The ground floor of the building consists of a lawn.
3. The man swam across the sea after he fell off the ship.
4. The efficient cook made us our dinner.
5. He always said what he wanted to say.
6. I am living in my own house.

7. I was waiting at the park.
8. They all sang extremely well.

B Underline the adjective phrases in the following sentences :

1. A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.
2. A stitch in time saves nine.
3. A man of the word would not behave in this way.
4. A friend in need is a friend indeed.
5. Birds of a feather flock together.
6. Even the man in the street cannot be ignored.
7. The paths of glory lead but to the grave.
8. That was an act of cowardice.

C Underline the noun phrases in the following sentences :

1. She loves to play guitar.
2. I enjoy walking in the fields.
3. I like visiting historical monuments.
4. To dance in the streets is disgraceful.
5. He hopes to win the first prize.
6. To forgive one's enemies is noble.
7. To be weak is miserable.
8. I enjoy playing badminton.

D Underline the phrases in the following sentences and state whether they are adjective phrases, adverb phrases, or noun phrases :

1. All these dogs bark in a loud voice.
2. The baby is so sweet looking.
3. He is a person of great fame.
4. The train is running behind time.
5. He came first by running fast.
6. I do not have a book of stories.
7. He won the reward by working hard.

Types of Sentences

A sentence is a group of words which are arranged in a particular order to convey a complete sense and a clear meaning.

There are mainly three types of sentences :

1. Simple sentence
2. Compound sentence
3. Complex sentence

Simple Sentence

A sentence which contains only one clause is known as a simple sentence.

A simple sentence consists of just one main clause.

Examples :

1. The men were constructing a dam.
2. Yuvansh is fat.

Each of the above sentences has only one main clause. There is a subject and a predicate in each of these sentences.

Compound Sentence

A sentence which consists of two or more main/principal clauses is called a compound sentence.

A compound sentence consists of two or more main or principal clauses.

Example :

Yuvansh is fat and Tarun is thin.

The above sentence consists of two clauses :

- a. Yuvansh is fat.
- b. Tarun is thin.

The conjunction and joins the two clauses, each of which makes complete sense by itself. Such clauses are also called coordinate clauses.

3. Yuvansh, who is Tarun's friend, fell into a ditch, which was full of mud.

The above sentence has three clauses :

- Yuvansh fell into a ditch.
- Who is Tarun's friend.
- Which was full of mud.

Clause (a) makes complete sense by itself, but none of the clauses (b) and (c) makes complete sense by itself. So clause (a) is the main/principal clause, and clause (b) and (c) are subordinate clauses.

Sometimes a complex sentence may consist of two or more coordinate clauses and one or more than one subordinate clause.

Example :

Sujata, who is my friend, lives in Kolkata, and John, who is also a friend of mine, lives in Mumbai.

The above sentence consists of four clauses :

- Sujata lives in Kolkata. (Subject : Sujata; Predicate : lives in Kolkata)
- Who is my friend. (Subject : Who; Predicate : is my friend)
- John lives in Mumbai. (Subject : John; Predicate : lives in Mumbai)
- Who is also my friend. (Subject : Who; predicate : is also my friend)

Each of the clauses (a) and (c) makes complete sense by itself, but none of the clauses (b) and (d) makes complete sense by itself. So clauses (a) and (c) are coordinate clauses and clauses (b) and (d) are subordinate clauses.

A Write whether the following sentences are simple, complex or compound :

- Ajay and Vijay lived in the same locality in Patna. _____
- Do you know where this man comes from? _____
- The game being over, we went home. _____
- She is too poor to hire a house. _____
- I am sure that you are right, but he does not agree to it. _____
- He is snoring so loudly that I cannot sleep. _____
- Your solution to the sum is totally wrong. _____
- The game being over, we went home. _____
- If he is absent, he will not get the prize. _____
- Do you know what the answer to this question is? _____

B Combine the following pairs of sentences using suitable coordinating conjunctions :

1. The sun rose. The sky brightened up.

2. She lost her job. She maintained her calm.

3. He must weep. He must die.

4. He was disappointed. He did not express his feelings.

5. The boy went to sleep. His mother sat down to knit.

C Complete the following simple sentences :

1. In spite of _____
2. Instead of _____
3. _____ for us to go there.
4. The children came _____
5. He did not _____
6. Hearing the noise _____ before sunset.
7. After _____, we sat down to watch television.

D Complete the following complex sentences :

1. What are your _____
2. I wash _____ which you gave me.
3. Only the students who _____
4. _____ she will certainly come
5. Please speak loudly, so _____
6. This is the famous book _____
7. He wants that _____
8. Tell me about _____

Adjectives

An adjective is a word that describes or modifies a noun (a person, place, thing, or idea). For example, "The cute puppy is playful", the adjectives "cute" and "playful" indicate what the animal looks like and how it behaves.

There are different kinds of adjectives. In this chapter, we will learn about quantitative, interrogative and emphasizing adjectives.

Quantitative Adjectives

These are adjectives which describe the quantity of a thing or person. These adjectives tell us how much of a thing we are talking about.

Examples :

1. There are many colourful marbles.
2. She ate the whole box of fruits.
3. She had enough supplies for a month.

When a quantitative adjective tells us about how many persons or things we are talking about, it is sometimes called a numeral adjective.

An ordinary quantitative adjective just mentions a quantity and answers the question – how much?

A quantitative numeral adjective answers the question – how many?

There are two main kinds of numeral adjectives :

1. Definite Numeral Adjectives : Such adjectives mention exact or definite numbers.

Examples :

1. I have learnt three languages.
2. There are twelve people in the group.
3. I could see four boats sailing down the river.

2. Indefinite Numeral Adjectives : Such adjectives tell us how many persons or things we are talking about without mentioning a definite number.

Example :

Several people died in the accident.

There are three kinds of definite numeral adjectives.

- a. A definite numeral adjective may be a definite number such as one, two, etc. It is then a cardinal.
- b. It may describe the exact position or rank of a person or thing in a group or series.

Examples :

1. The first and largest continent is Africa.
2. The first Indian woman to go into space was Kalpana Chawla.
- c. A definite numeral adjective may refer to a number less than one.

Examples :

1. Half the class is absent today because of the heavy rain.
2. The moon is one-fourth the size of the earth.

Such adjectives are known as fractions.

Interrogative Adjectives

An interrogative adjective is a word that aids in the formulation of queries regarding nouns (people, places, or things). It assists us in learning more about the noun.

Examples :

1. Which flower do you want to gift among these?
2. Whose water bottle is this?

Here, the words which and whose have been used to ask questions as they qualify the nouns flower and water bottle respectively.

When an adjective is used in this way to ask a question, it is called an interrogative adjective.

Emphasizing Adjectives

Sometimes, we use adjectives to emphasize what we want to say. Such adjectives are known as emphasizing adjectives.

Examples :

1. What the man said was absolute rubbish.
2. Anu came very late and had to stand at the very end of line.
3. The book was a total failure, for only a few people bought it.
4. Jack built this house with his own hands.

In sentence 1, the word absolute qualifies the noun rubbish. It has been used to emphasize the worthlessness of what the man said; it was not only rubbish, but absolute rubbish.

Similarly, sentence 2 tells us that Anu came very late and had to stand not only at the end of the line, but at the very end of it. The word very qualifies the noun end.

Sentence 3 describes how great a failure the book was. It was not just a failure, it was a total failure. The word total qualifies the noun failure.

In sentence 4, the speaker wants to make it clear how hard Jack had worked to build the house. So, the word own is used (though it is not necessary for the sake of emphasis) which qualifies the noun hands.

A Rewrite the following sentences using the adjectives given in brackets. Put the adjectives in correct order :

1. Aunt Preeti wants a coffee table. (square, grey)

2. The king took a trip. (two-week, exhausting)

3. These are cookies! (delicious, huge)

4. Mack prefers furniture. (Italian, black)

5. Archaeologists get very excited when they find bones. (large, prehistoric)

B Identify the adjective and mention its type in the following sentences :

1. The cat didn't drink any milk.
2. The food was delicious.
3. Whose pencil box is this?
4. These apples are sweet.
5. Jeet came second in the marathon.
6. I saw it with my own eyes.
7. What a splendid piece of art!
8. Emily Bronte was a Victorian novelist.
9. The Atlantic Ocean is the largest ocean in the world.
10. Most children are playing.
11. I did not find those books.
12. John is a good runner.

Kinds of Adverbs

Adverbs are words that describe or modify a verb, an adjective or another adverb. It often tells us how, when, where or to what extent an action is happening.

In this chapter, we will learn about adverbs of degree, frequency, interrogation, reason, affirmation or negation.

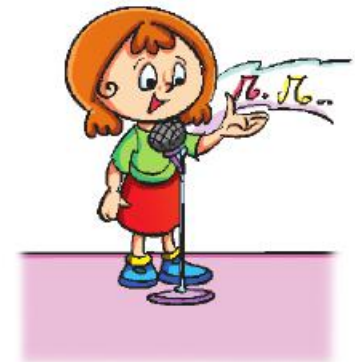

Adverbs of Degree

Adverbs of degree tell us the degree or the extent to which something happens. They answer the question – ‘how much or to what degree?’

Read the following sentences :

1. He really liked the song.
2. You are partly right.
3. My friend is quite well now.
4. These shoes are too big for me.
5. This is a very easy question.
6. These mangoes are almost ripe.

In the above sentences, the words almost, partly, quite, too, very, really have been used as adverbs of degree.

Working Hours

A Underline the adverbs of degree in the following sentences :

1. The old lady was almost blind and could hardly walk.
2. The news of her mother's illness upset Vidya greatly.
3. The judges were utterly amazed at the performance of the young dancer.
4. This chair is extremely comfortable and surprisingly cheap.
5. The bitterly cold winds have killed all the flowers.
6. The sun had nearly set when we reached home.

7. Some modern trains can travel incredibly fast.
8. Java is far more interested in physics than in chemistry.

Adverbs of Frequency

Adverbs which tell us how often or frequently something happens or is done, are known as adverbs of frequency.

Read the following sentences :

1. Ajit always comes late to school.
2. Ronak often comes late to school.
3. Rashi sometimes comes late to school.
4. Neha never comes late to school.

In the above sentences, the adverbs always, often, sometimes, never tell us how often or frequently something is done or happens.

REMEMBER

Do not get confused with an adverb of time and an adverb of frequency. An adverb of time answers the question when? while an adverb of frequency answers the question how often?

B Underline the adverbs of frequency in the following sentences :

1. I never tell a lie.
2. He is always ready to help the poor.
3. The teacher taught the lesson several times.
4. Vinay plays golf daily.
5. This old man seldom comes here.
6. My sister always sings well.
7. 'You must exercise daily to keep fit,' says our PT teacher.
8. Rita is never happy and she continuously complains about others.
9. 'Never say die' actually means 'always hope for the best.'
10. Sometimes it is better to keep quiet and listen to what others have to say.

Adverbs of Reason

Adverb of Reasons show why an action is performed.

Read the following sentences :

1. Tarun was ill. He could not, therefore, sit for the examination.

2. This man helped the enemy, hence he is a traitor.

In the above sentences, the words therefore and hence have been used as adverbs of reason.

Adverbs of Interrogation

The words that are used to ask questions are called adverbs of Interrogation.

Read the following sentences :

1. Who wrote this letter neatly?
2. When will you come?
3. Where has father gone?

In the above sentences, the words who, when, where have been used as adverbs of interrogation.

Adverbs of Affirmation or Negation

- ♦ A word used to affirm something is called an adverb of affirmation.
- ♦ A word used to deny something is called an adverb of negation.

Read these sentences :

1. This is surely a happy day for all of us. We have got what we wanted.
2. Vimal was ill. He could not, therefore, sit for the examination.

In sentence 1, the word surely has been used to affirm a fact. Such an adverb is known as adverb of affirmation.

In sentences 2, the word not has been used to form the negative of the verb could sit. Such an adverb is known as adverb of negation.

Some other adverbs of affirmation and negation are : yes, no, not at all, yeah, hay, by all means, certainly, etc.

C Put adverbs given in brackets in the correct position and rewrite the sentences :

1. Jeet and his brother look alike. (very)

2. Mrs Gupta is not a rude woman. (really)

3. Yesterday my friend Vijay gave me the news. (only)

4. The poor man continued to wait. (outside, sadly)

5. The boys do their duty. (carefully, always)

6. The little girl died in the street accident. (almost)

D Write opposites of the following adverbs :

1. upward

2. sadly

3. quietly

4. properly

5. soon

6. wholly

7. everywhere

8. politely

9. wisely

10. generously

11. carefully

12. now

13. angrily

14. kindly

E Fill in the blanks with appropriate adverbs of the kind as indicated in brackets :

1. He is a _____ kind man.

(degree)

2. He is _____ ready to help the needy.

(frequency)

3. I saw a movie _____ with my friends.

(time)

4. My brother is _____ from town these days.

(place)

5. I have _____ heard such a funny story.

(time)

6. She had to wait _____ till the rain stopped.

(place)

7. I am feeling _____ after taking the medicine.

(degree)

8. The teacher taught the lesson _____ so that the students could be through with it.

(frequency)

9. She spoke _____ to the teacher.

(manner)

10. The soldiers fought _____ in the battle.

(manner)

F Read the passage below and circle the adverbs :

Freddy ran quickly. He had never been so frightened. He screamed loudly and ran towards the sea. He always went there whenever he was frightened. He was so glad to reach the sea shore. Everywhere he saw the beautiful sea. Soon he forgot that he was frightened and played happily with the sand.

Pronouns : Reflexive and Emphasizing

Pronouns refer to the words that replace nouns in a sentence. Examples are he, her, his, their, etc.

Reflexive Pronouns

When pronouns myself, yourself, himself, etc are used as receiver of an action, they are called reflexive pronouns.

Example : I blamed myself.

A reflexive pronoun can also be the object of a preposition.

Example : my aunt lives by herself.

The various forms of reflexive pronouns are given below :

Person	Singular		Plural
	Personal	Reflexive	Personal	Reflexive
First person	I	myself	we	ourselves
Second person	you	yourself	you	yourselves
Third person	he	himself	they	themselves
	she	herself	they	themselves
	it	itself	they	themselves

- ◆ Though the reflexive pronoun used for emphasis is usually placed after the subject, it can be placed after the object of a transitive verb or after an intransitive verb + preposition + noun.
- ◆ When a reflexive pronoun is used to emphasize a noun other than the subject, it is placed immediately after that noun.

Example : Jack met the Queen herself.

- ◆ Reflexive pronouns are also used to emphasize that somebody did something alone or without any help or interference from anyone else. Note the use of the preposition by in the following sentences :

1. The old man lived in that house all by himself. (=alone)

2. I solved the puzzle by myself. (= without the help of anybody else)

- ◆ Reflexive pronouns are used after verbs with prepositions to make it clear which person or thing we are talking about.

A Fill in the blanks with suitable reflexive pronouns :

1. We enjoyed _____ in the park.
2. I slipped and hurt _____.
3. Rohit, dry _____ with a towel.
4. Children, don't feel shy. Take _____ cakes and biscuits.
5. They were angry with _____ for that silly mistake.
6. The train came to a halt by _____.
7. Mary saw _____ in the mirror.
8. Gaurav availed _____ of the opportunity.

Emphasizing Pronouns

A pronoun used to convey emphasis is called an emphasizing pronoun.

Examples :

1. I myself locked the door.
2. You yourself asked for money.

Reflexive Pronouns and Emphasizing Pronouns

We have noticed that reflexive pronouns and emphasizing pronouns are identical in form. Then how can we find out, whether a pronoun has been used as a reflexive pronoun or as an emphasizing pronoun? In order to do so, we should try to understand its function.

A reflexive pronoun answers the question — whom? while an emphasizing pronoun lends emphasis.

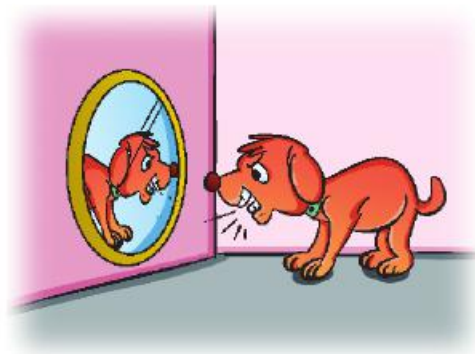

Examples :

1. I blamed myself for my failure.
Blamed whom?—myself. So the word myself has been used as a reflexive pronoun.
2. Kamal : Are you sure the door was locked?
Pooja : I myself locked it.

(Nobody else, only I locked the door. So I know it was locked.) Here the word myself has been used as an emphasizing pronoun.

B Fill in the blanks with appropriate reflexive or emphasizing pronouns :

1. You can let _____ in.
2. She cleaned the house _____.
3. He fell down and hurt _____.
4. A robot can do many things by _____.
5. The dog saw _____ in the mirror and started barking.
6. Yuvi forced _____ to swallow the bitter medicine.
7. She _____ spoke to me.
8. Rohan _____ chose the shirt.
9. They helped _____ to some extent.
10. Uncle Podger always blamed others, but never _____ for the mistakes he made.
11. Kajal liked the room _____ but not the furniture in it.
12. The girl could not control _____ and burst out laughing.

C Circle the reflexive pronouns and underline the emphasizing pronouns in the following sentences :

1. I myself showed you the way.
2. You yourself can explain the matter.
3. I will whitewash the wall myself.
4. We should blame ourselves and not our fate.
5. I have often seen her talking to herself.
6. The principal himself suggested these changes.
7. They have cooked this dish themselves.
8. We ourselves talked to the minister.
9. She decorated the picture herself.
10. The chief minister himself looked into the matter.
11. You yourself wanted to change your school.
12. Some children absented themselves from the after-school.

Possessive Pronouns and Adjectives

Possessive Pronouns

Pronouns that are used to indicate possession of something by someone are called possessive pronouns. Examples of possessive pronouns are mine, hers, his etc.

Read the following sentences :

1. There are some old books in the box. They are mine.
2. My shoes are new. So are yours.
3. That umbrella is new. It is hers.
4. That is a beautiful house. It is theirs.

The words mine, yours, hers, theirs are possessive forms of the personal pronouns I, you, she, they. They tell us that certain persons have or own certain things, or that certain things belong to certain persons. But they do not depend on nouns. In each of the above sentences, the pronoun has been used without a noun and the sense is complete.

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------|
| 1. they are mine . | (= belong to me) |
| 2. So are yours . | (= belong to you) |
| 3. It is hers . | (= belongs to her) |
| 4. It is theirs . | (= belongs to them) |

These possessive forms are called possessive pronouns.

Possessive Adjectives

A possessive adjective is a word that is used to modify a noun to indicate ownership.

Read the following sentences :

1. I have put all my old books in a box.
2. Where are your new shoes?
3. My father has forgotten to wear his watch.

The words my, your, his are possessive forms of the personal pronouns I, you, he. They tell us about possession, that is, certain persons have or own certain things, or certain things belong to certain persons.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. My old books belong to me . | 2. Your new shoes belong to you . |
|--|---|

3. His watch belongs to him, that is, my father.

Thus the words my, your, his are considered to be adjectives because they tell us more about nouns or qualify nouns (like books, shoes, watch) and so they do the work of adjectives. Moreover, they cannot be used on their own without nouns.

We cannot say :

1. I have put my.
2. Where are your?
3. My father has forgotten to wear his.

In each case, a noun (books, shoes, watch) is needed to make the sense complete. They are, therefore, called possessive adjectives or pronominal adjectives (formed from pronouns).

Gerunds and Participles

Gerund

Gerunds are the -ing forms of verbs that are functioning as nouns in a sentence. They show action or a state of being.

Read the following sentences :

1. Reading gives her great pleasure.
2. He likes walking by the riverside.

In sentence 1, the suffix ing has been added to the verb read. The word reading is the subject of the verb gives, and acts like a noun.

In sentence 2, the suffix ing has been added to the verb walk. The word walking is the object of the verb likes, and acts like a noun.

Thus, both the words are verbal nouns, and are known as gerunds.

A gerund is a word based on a verb that functions as a noun in the sentence.

Different Uses of Gerund as a Verbal Noun

- ♦ Agerund, like a noun, can be the subject of a verb.

Example : Playing tennis is a wonderful exercise.

Here, the gerund playing, just like a noun, is the subject of the verb is, but like a verb it has also an object (tennis).

- ♦ Agerund, like a verb, often takes an object.

Example : Writing poetry has a charm of its own.

Here, writing is the name of an activity and therefore it is like a noun, but like a verb it takes an object (poetry).

- ♦ Agerund acts like a noun and a verb at the same time. It can be the object of a verb and also may have its own object.

Example : His favourite hobby is painting pictures.

Here, the gerund painting, like a noun, is the object of the verb is, but like a verb it has its own object (pictures).

REMEMBER

- ♦ A gerund, a present participle and a verb in the continuous tense have the same form, i.e. verb + ing.
- ♦ A gerund is the name of an action; a present participle describes an unfinished action.
- ♦ A verb in the continuous tense has a helping verb (am, is, are, etc) before it.

A Underline the gerunds and circle their objects, if any, in the following sentences :

1. Charles Dickens was very good at reading out his own stories.
2. Snoring is a disease that can be cured now-a-days.
3. Saying farewell is much more difficult than welcoming somebody.
4. The pilgrims, boarding the buses, will be visiting a shrine.
5. The dentist warned Shanti about eating sweets all the time.
6. He has decided to take up acting as his profession.
7. In the past, people used to walking long distances and travelling was an adventure.
8. Taking photographs of wildlife has now become a passion with many people. It is much better than shooting them.
9. Ajay loves building model aeroplanes and ships.
10. Buying and selling is what a trader does.
11. You can never solve a problem by avoiding it. Facing it bravely is much better.
12. I like thinking of the future and dreaming impossible dreams.
13. The speeding truck knocked the old man down.
14. Speaking with your mouth full is a bad habit.

Present Participles

Read the sentence given below :

Entering the room, the man found a little girl.

In the above sentence, the word entering is connected to the noun man like an adjective. But it also describes an action done by the man.

Entering thus acts both as a verb and as an adjective.

Such a word is called a participle. It may also be called a verbal adjective.

A present participle tells about an action that is continuing, i.e. it is incomplete or unfinished.

Examples :

1. We saw a girl playing with a doll.
2. See the boy climbing the tree.
3. I heard a bird singing.
4. The woman went away weeping.
5. There is a dog jumping up and down.

However, many a times we can see that many -ing adjectives are formed by adding a prefix to the verb + ing.

Examples :

1. ongoing project (on + go + ing = continuing)
2. outstanding success (out + stand + ing = exceptionally good)
3. forthcoming event (forth + come + ing) = about to happen

The meaning of an -ing adjective may be different from the usual meaning of the verb from which it has been formed.

Examples :

1. fetching clothes (= attractive)
2. revolting smell (= extremely unpleasant)
3. haunting music (= unforgettable)

Some -ing adjectives are used in spoken English only to express disapproval.

Example : blooming mistake.

REMEMBER

The -ing form of a verb is also used to form the continuous tenses. However, in such a case, a helping verb has to be used with the -ing form.

Examples : 1. She is running. 2. She was running. 3. She will be running.

Past Participles

A past participle is a verb-word ending with -ed, -d, -en, -n or -t. It tells about an action that is finished or complete.

Examples :

1. The chair is broken.

2. The rooms are filled with students.
3. Lawn tennis is enjoyed the world over.
4. She is a girl loved by everybody.

A perfect participle is a past participle with the participle having before it. It tells about an action that was done, or was continuing for a long period before another action.

Examples :

1. Having done my job, I went to see mother.
2. The weather having turned bad, we returned.
3. Having bought a book, she went home satisfied.
4. It having rained continuously, the roads went under water.

The past participle forms of many verbs are the same as their past tense forms.

Examples :

1. The Greeks sometimes buried their dead. (past tense of bury)
2. The travellers lost their way in the forest. (past tense of lose)

REMEMBER

The -ed adjective is used to refer to all adjectives that are formed with the help of -d, -ed, -en, -n or -t and which might not be related to any verb or which might not have any corresponding verbs at all.

- ◆ If the -d, -ed, -en, -n or -t form of a verb is used as an adjective, it is often called a past participle. We shall always call it an -ed adjective.
- ◆ The past participle form of a verb is also used to form its perfect tenses.
- ◆ The past tense form of a verb may be the same as the past participle form.
- ◆ An -ing adjective, when used in a phrase, may take an object.

Examples :

1. What is the name of the animal chasing the deer?
2. The man, carrying an umbrella, is the manager of a bank.

In sentence 1, the phrase chasing the deer qualifies the noun animal.

However, the -ing adjective chasing has an object : deer.

[Q : Chasing what/whom? Ans : deer]

In sentence 2, carrying an umbrella qualifies the noun man.

The -ing adjective carrying has an object : umbrella.

[Q : Carrying what? Ans : umbrella]

Such a group of words which contains an -ing or -ed adjective is also called a verbal or participle phrase.

B Underline the participle phrases in the following sentences :

1. The report, submitted by the police, was placed before the judge.
2. The ornaments, made of gold and silver, must be safely stored.
3. The toast, badly burnt, the tea, hastily made, were all thrown away.
4. We were thinking of staging Macbeth, written by Shakespeare.
5. The ship, lying in the harbour, will soon be sailing to Kolkata.

C State whether the underlined words are -ing /-ed adjectives or verbs. Point out the nouns the adjectives qualify. Name the tenses of the verbs :

1. The frightened rabbit hid behind a fallen tree.
2. The web spun by the spider was glistening in the sunlight.
3. The stories narrated by the traveller amazed us.
4. The menacing clouds were blown away by the gusty wind.
5. We could hear the haunting music in our minds long after it was heard no more.
6. The money donated by Raja was distributed among the poor.
7. A divided nation cannot defend itself against an enemy.
8. The cunning fox was trying to escape with the chicken it had stolen.
9. We were told not to go near the haunted house.
10. Molten lava poured out of the erupting volcano.
11. There was a blustering wind and the lit candles flickered.
12. The newly constructed bungalow looked as beautiful as a painted picture.
13. The injured child was taken to the hospital.
14. Please pick up the torn pieces of paper and find out who has thrown them all over the floor.
15. Vijay opened the closed door and saw a horrifying sight.

Placement of Prepositions

1. A preposition is usually placed before its object, that is, a noun or a pronoun or a group of words that is doing the work of a noun.

Examples :

1. The man stared at her. (her : pronoun – object of at)
2. The cat was sleeping on the chair. (chair : noun – object of on)
3. There are many books on Indian cookery. (Indian cookery : noun phrase – object of on)

2. In some sentences, we can place the preposition in a different position.

Example : That is the man she was speaking to. (man : noun – object of to)

3. a. The preposition and its object (sometimes called the prepositional phrase) are usually placed after the verb in a clause or sentence.

Example : We jumped into the icy cold water.

(into : preposition; object : the icy cold water)

- b. If, for some reason, we want to draw attention to or emphasize the prepositional phrase, we can place it at the beginning of the clause or sentence.

Example : Into the icy water we jumped.

This focuses attention on the fact that though the water was icy cold, we jumped into it.

4. Sometimes, if we change the position of a preposition, a pronoun has to be omitted.

Examples :

1. a. The country with which England was at war was Germany. (which : pronoun)
- b. The country England was at war with was Germany. (which omitted)

2. a. The forest in which Robin Hood lived was Sherwood. (which : pronoun)
- b. The forest Robin Hood lived in was Sherwood. (which omitted)

Omission of Prepositions

Look at the following pairs of sentences :

1. a. Mother made a sandwich for me.
b. Mother made me a sandwich.
2. a. The postman gave the letter to him.
b. The postman gave him the letter.

Note that when we place the indirect object (him) immediately after the verb (gave), the preposition (to) is omitted.

Similarly, when me, the indirect object, comes immediately after the verb (made), the preposition (for) is omitted.

10. Raman brushes his teeth (after/by) having meals.

Conjunctions

The words that joins other words, group of words or sentences together are called conjunction. A conjunction helps us to make, what we want to say, shorter and more specific.

Study the following pairs of sentences :

1. I ran fast. I missed the train.
2. The sun set. Night fell.

In the first pair, 'I ran fast' and 'I missed the train' are two independent sentences. They stand alone and are of equal rank. They do not depend upon each other to express their full meanings. If we join these two sentences with the word but, we make the single sentence – I ran fast but missed the train.

In the second pair also, the two sentences, 'The sun set' and 'Night fell' are two independent sentences of equal rank. We may join them together with the word and to get the single sentence – The sun set and night fell.

These two words and and but are co-ordinating conjunctions. Other co-ordinating conjunctions are or, still, yet, etc.

A conjunction that joins together sentences of equal rank is known as a co-ordinating conjunction.

Now study these two sentences :

1. I like him because he is honest.
2. He knows where you have put the files.

The first sentence contains two statements – I like him, and because he is honest.

Are these two sentences independent? Can they stand alone? No. The sentence because he is honest makes incomplete sense. It depends upon the sentence I like him for expressing its full meaning. It is subordinate to the other sentence I like him. So, the two sentences are of unequal rank and the word because joins them together.

In the second sentence also, the statement where you have put the files is incomplete and must depend upon He knows to make a full sense.

These two words because and where are subordinating conjunctions. Other subordinating conjunctions are after, before, if, that, though, although, till, unless, when, while, etc.

A conjunction that joins together two sentences of unequal rank is known as a subordinating conjunction.

There are some conjunctions which are used in pairs, such as :

S. No.	Conjunction	Example
1.	Either....or	Either take it or leave it.

Nouns : The Possessive Case

Possessive nouns show possession or belonging by the use of an apostrophe (').

Examples : girl's frock, peacocks, feathers, children's school.

Formation of Possessive Case of Nouns

Let us learn how to make possessive case of nouns.

1. We put an apostrophe and s ('s) to the singular noun to form the possessive case.

Examples :

1. Yuvi's car is new.
2. The boy's note is lost.
3. Bunny's books are here in this rack.
4. They went to Jeet's house.
5. Rahul's umbrella flew away in the strong wind.
6. They are buying things from a grocer's shop.

2. The possessive case of a plural noun is formed in the following two ways :
 - a. By adding only an apostrophe (') if the plural of the noun ends in -s or es.

Examples :

1. The school of boys → Boys' school
2. The nests of the birds → the birds' nests

Verbs : Auxiliary Verbs and Modals

A verb is a word that describes an action or work.

A verb tells us three things :

- ◆ What a person or thing does.

Examples :

1. Vinita is going to school.
2. Rajat can sing any song.
3. Neha plays volleyball.

- ◆ What is done to a person or thing.

Examples :

1. Priya is punished for naughtiness.
2. Fireworks are loved by everybody.
3. Kites are flown by boys.

- ◆ What a person or thing is.

Examples :

1. I am a man. These are fruits.
2. She is a poet. We are students.

Finite and Auxiliary Verbs

- ◆ A finite verb describes the main work or action of a sentence. Every sentence must have a finite verb.

Examples :

1. We eat rice everyday.
2. Rita reads in Class V.
3. Children play in the park.
4. He paints pictures.
5. People of many races live in India.

In the above sentences, the verbs eat, read, play, paints and live are the main actions done by the subjects of the sentences. They are finite verbs.

- ◆ An auxiliary verb is a helping verb. It helps the finite verb to express the full meaning of the action and when the action happened. The verbs am, is, are, was, were, have, has, had, shall and will are the main auxiliary verbs.

Examples :

1. The deer was killed by the hunter. 2. We shall go to the fair together.

3. The teacher is asking questions. 4. She has done her homework.

- ♦ Often the auxiliary verb is used alone and performs the action of a finite verb.

Examples :

1. I have a red shirt.

2. These boys are good students.

3. They were fine players.

4. He had a motor car.

Modals

Some special auxiliary verbs are called modals. The following words are called modals.

can, could	may, might	ought to, must	dare, need shall, should	will, would	have to, has to	used to

- ♦ Modals are different from other auxiliaries, viz is, am, are, has, have and had.

Examples : 1. Manu has a red shirt. 2. Manu has come to school today.

The auxiliary has is used in two different senses here.

- ♦ A modal is always used in a particular and special sense.

- ♦ Modals with not are generally written in the short form.

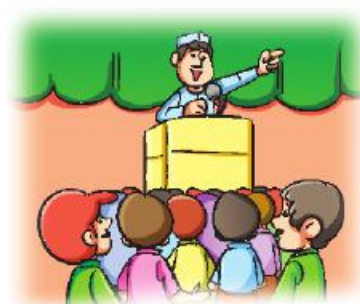

Examples : cannot - can't, will not - won't, shall not - shan't, would not - wouldn't, must not - mustn't, should not - shouldn't, could not - couldn't, dare not - daren't, need not - needn't.

There are three main tenses in English :

- | 1. Present Tense | 2. Past Tense | 3. Future Tense |
|---|---------------|-----------------|
| ◆ Verbs describing an action that is happening now denote the Present Tense .
Examples : 1. They play cricket everyday. 2. I am going to the market. | | |
| ◆ Verbs describing what happened before denote the Past Tense .
Examples : 1. The boys went to Rishikesh last month.
2. You came to me yesterday. | | |
| ◆ Verbs indicating an action that will happen later denote the Future Tense .
Examples : 1. Father will visit France next month.
2. We shall take part in the contest. | | |

Each tense has four forms :

1. Simple 2. Continuous 3. Perfect 4. Perfect Continuous

Uses of the Tenses

- ## 1. Simple Present Tense : It is used :
- ♦ To express what is actually happening at the present moment.
Examples : 1. She goes there.
2. See how it rains!
3. Here comes the train.
 - ♦ To express general truths.
Examples : 1. Sugar is sweet.
2. The sun shines in the sky.
3. Man is mortal.
 - ♦ To express a habitual action or custom.
Examples : 1. I play football every afternoon.
2. He drinks tea in the morning.

- ◆ To indicate a future action that is foreseen or planned.

Examples : 1. They go to Delhi next week.
2. The school reopens on Monday next.

2. Present Continuous Tense : It is used :

- ◆ To express an action that is going on at the time of speaking.

Examples : 1. The children are playing in the park.
2. She is singing a Tagore song.

- ◆ To indicate an action planned or arranged to happen in the near future.

Examples : 1. Uncle is arriving tomorrow.
2. I am going to meet him at the station.

- ◆ To indicate a temporary action that may not be actually happening at the time of speaking.

Example : I am reading a play by Shaw now. (may not be reading right now)

3. Present Perfect Tense : It used to indicate :

- ◆ An action completed not very long ago.

Examples : 1. The sun has set.
2. She has gone out.
3. The letter has come just now.

- ◆ An action, the time of which is not definitely known.

Examples : 1. Have you done the job?
2. Mr Rajat has visited the UK many times.

- ◆ Events in the recent past, the effect of which is still present.

Examples : 1. I have finished my homework (= I am free now).
2. She has cut her hand. (= it is bleeding now).

- ◆ An action that began in the past and still remains in the present.

Examples : 1. We have known each other for several years.
2. He has been ill since Monday last.
3. I haven't got a letter from her for a long time.

4. Present Perfect Continuous Tense : It indicates all actions that began in the past, and are still continuing in the present.

Examples : 1. He has been suffering from fever for two days.
2. I have been working since 6 a.m.

(‘for’ = period of time; ‘since’ = particular point of time)

5. Simple Past Tense : It describes an action that took place in the past time.

- Examples :
1. Stephenson invented the railway engine.
 2. They left Mumbai a week ago.
 3. We went to a movie last evening.
 4. She passed the M.A. examination in 2016.

- 6. Past Continuous Tense : It describes an action that began and was continuing for some time in the past.

- Examples :
1. We were eating when she came.
 2. They were going to school.
 3. The old man was sitting alone.
 4. I was writing when you called me.

- 7. Past Perfect Tense : It shows that two different actions took place in the past, but one action took place before the other. In that case, the simple past is used for the later action, and the past perfect is used for the earlier action.

- Examples :
1. The patient had died when the doctor arrived.
 2. The train had left when I reached the station.
 3. Sahel had gone home before I could see him.

- 8. Past Perfect Continuous Tense : It shows that an action had started at some particular time in the past, and continued up to that time.

- Examples :
1. When I met him, he had been working at the office for more than six years.
 2. We had been walking for about two hours, when it began to rain heavily.

- 9. Simple Future Tense : It is used to express some action that will take place in future.

- Examples :
1. They will start for Jessore tomorrow.
 2. We shall come to see you next Sunday.

- 10. Future Continuous Tense : It describes an action that will be continuing in future for some time without stopping.

- Examples :
1. Don't call at midnight, for I shall be sleeping then.
 2. We shall be travelling towards Rajashtan at this time tomorrow.

- 11. Future Perfect Tense : It tells us that one particular action will be completed in the future, before another future action takes place.

- Examples :
1. We shall have reached home, before it begins to rain.
 2. Before you reach Park Street, he will have left his office.

- 12. Future Perfect Continuous Tense : It shows an action going on over a period of time that will end in the future.

- Examples : 1. By next December, my son will have been living in London for two years.
2. I shall have been teaching you for two hours, when this lesson comes to an end.

(Future Perfect Continuous Tense is not much in use now-a-days, because the construction of the sentence is too complex. People today prefer easier speech and simpler sentences.)

Suffixes

A suffix is a word part added to the end of a word to create a new meaning. The meaning of the new word is usually different from that of the original word.

We use suffixes for many purposes :

1. To form plurals of nouns by adding -s, -es, -en to the singulars.
2. To form tenses of verbs by adding -s, -es, -d, -ed, -t to the base forms.
3. To form adverbs by adding -ly to adjectives.

Let us now look at three commonly used suffixes :

1. -er : teach + er = teacher work + er = worker read + er = reader
 - a. In the case of words ending in e, only -r needs to be added :
sure + er = surer pure + er = purer give + er = giver
 - b. In the case of words ending in y, the y has to be dropped and -ier has to be added :
dry + er = drier merry + er = merrier carry + er = carrier
2. -ful : help + ful = helpful care + ful = careful pain + ful = painful

Active and Passive Voice

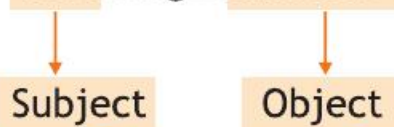

A sentence, in which the subject does not perform the action denoted by the verb but is acted upon, is said to be in the passive voice.

Passive = not active

Look at these sentences :

1. Jeet caught a butterfly. (Active Voice)

2. A butterfly was caught by Jeet. (Passive Voice)

Rules to Change Active Voice into Passive Voice

- Only the voice of transitive verbs can be changed.
- When you change the verb from the active voice to the passive voice, remember following steps :
 - ◆ Make the subject of the active voice, the object of the passive voice.
 - ◆ Make the object of the active voice, the subject of the passive voice.
 - ◆ Change the finite verb in the active voice to its past participle form.
 - ◆ Add the necessary auxiliary verb before the past participle (same tense).
 - ◆ Add by before the object (doer of action) in the passive voice.

Example : The boys ate all the food. (Active)

All the food was eaten by the boys. (Passive)

- ♦ Use the active voice when you want to make the subject (doer of action) more important than the object. Use the passive form when the doer is unknown or understood.

REMEMBER

Avoid by in sentences such as : The thief has been caught. The garbage has been taken away. The house was painted recently. The road has been repaired.

Now, read and learn the following examples :

Present Tense

S.No.	Active Voice	Passive Voice
1.	He loves his friends.	His friends are loved by him.
2.	She is painting a house.	A house is being painted by her.
3.	I read this newspaper.	This newspaper is read by me.
4.	Some boys have helped the injured man.	The injured man has been helped by some boys.

Past Tense

S.No.	Active Voice	Passive Voice
1.	The milkmaid opened the gate.	The gate was opened by the milkmaid.
2.	She was locking me.	I was being locked by her.
3.	He had rung the bell.	The bell had been rung by him.

Future Tense

S.No.	Active Voice	Passive Voice
1.	The old lady will not forgive you.	You will not be forgiven by the old lady.
2.	I shall read this story.	This story will be read by me.
3.	You will solve the questions.	The questions will be solved by you.
4.	Everyone will have praised us.	We shall have been praised by everyone.

The verbs which take two objects after them in active voice can be changed to the passive voice in two ways.

S.No.	Active Voice	Passive Voice
1.	She gave me a book.	a. A book was given to me by him. b. I was given a doll by him.
2.	Our teacher told us a story.	a. A story was told to us by our teacher. b. We were told a story by our teacher.

REMEMBER

The voice of verbs in future continuous tense and perfect continuous tenses (present, past, future) can't be changed.

A State which of the following sentences are in the active and which are in the passive voice :

1. The boys were flying kites all day long.
2. The enemy was forced to surrender.
3. The children planted trees all round their school.
4. We cleaned our own rooms and made our own beds.
5. The play has been acted many times by many different groups.
6. Absolute silence should be maintained in the library.
7. You must not talk to anybody during an examination.
8. Result of the examination will be announced after fifty days.

Some General Observations

1. The term voice is applicable to verbs, clauses and sentences.
2. There are two voices : the active and the passive. The active voice is the basic type.
3. The two voices enable us to look at the same action in two different ways. The active voice looks at the action from the point of view of the agent; the passive voice looks at the action from the point of view of the person or object affected by the action. So, the choice of which voice to use depends on what we want to emphasize—the agent, or the thing or person affected.

4. The passive voice is generally used in writing reports, describing scientific experiments, etc, for in such cases what is done, has been done or needs to be done is more important than the agent.
5. The passive voice is used when the agent is obvious or known, or people in general are the agents.

Examples :

1. It is said that she is a very intelligent person. (Active : They say...)
2. People are treated free of charge at this hospital.
3. Loans for buying houses can be obtained from banks.
4. Such violence cannot be tolerated.
6. The passive voice is used when we do not want to mention or do not know who the agent is, or want to avoid saying something unpleasant or harsh.

B Change the voice of following sentences :

1. The fort was surrounded by the enemy.

2. The whole floor was covered with a beautiful carpet.

3. The farmers ploughed the land and sowed seeds.

4. The magician entertained the children with his tricks.

5. We have received no information regarding this matter.

6. It is said that honesty is the best policy.

7. Every year, thousands of pilgrims visit this holy site.

8. All the dishes have been cooked by Gopal.

9. Close the windows immediately.

10. We shall do whatever you tell us.

C Change the following sentences from active to passive voice :

1. Mitesh had met my sister earlier also.

2. They had gone to the party.

3. She had drunk a cup of tea.

4. The tiger had already killed two labourers.

5. Had you never seen this place before?

6. Who had invited you to the feast?

7. Had the postman delivered the letters?

8. They had won the match.

9. We had finished the work before sunset.

10. Had they already repaired the road?

D Change the below sentences from Passive voice to Active voice:

1. The ball was kicked by the boy.

2. Dinner was cooked by the girl.

3. A lesson plan was written by the teacher.

4. The mailman was barked at by the dog.

5. The table was jumped on by the cat.

6. The window was broken by the ball.

7. The essay was written by Sachin.

8. The kennel was cleaned by the attendant.

Phrasal Verbs (Idioms)

Idioms are a group of words whose meaning is different from the meanings of the individual words. It is an idiomatic expression.

We use idioms to make our speech better. Idiomatic English is better-quality English.

The most common idioms are the phrasal verbs or verb-idioms.

After the same verb, we put different prepositions. Each combination of verb + preposition has a different meaning. These are called phrasal verbs or verb-idioms.

Punctuation

Punctuation Marks

Punctuation is a system of using special marks, in writing, to divide phrases and sentences, to make the meaning clear.

Compare these two sentences :

1. He said the policeman is a thief.
2. He, said the policeman, is a thief.

The first sentence has no marks to separate one part of it from the other but the second sentence has. This makes a great difference in the meaning. This difference is because of the use of punctuation marks.

The main marks of punctuation are :

- | | |
|---|----------------------------|
| 1. Full stop (.) | 2. Comma (,) |
| 3. Semicolon (;) | 4. Colon (:) |
| 5. Mark of Interrogation or Question Mark (?) | 6. Mark of Exclamation (!) |
| 7. Quotation Marks or Inverted Commas (" ") | 8. Apostrophe (') |

1. Full Stop (.) : It is used at the end of a declarative or imperative sentence. It separates one sentence from the other. It is the longest pause.

Example : Virat is my elder brother.

2. Comma (,) : It marks the shortest pause. It is used :

- a. to separate a series of words after each word.

Example : The bag contains books, pens, pencils and a ball.

- b. to mark off the name of the person addressed.

Example : Tarun, come here.

- c. wherever a group of words needs to be separated to make the meaning of the whole sentence clear.

Examples : 1. Whenever he comes to our house, he brings a present.

2. It is, as I think, a good beginning.

- d. to separate introductory words as phrase that applies to the whole sentence or to separate a direct quotation.

Examples : 1. Fortunately, he succeeded in spite of problems.

2. She said, "Thank you for your help."

3. Semicolon (;) : It makes a longer pause than a comma. It is used to separate a series of clauses.

Examples : 1. I came; I saw; I conquered.

2. I helped the injured; otherwise he would have died.

4. Colon (:) : It represents a longer pause than a semicolon. It is used to list out certain facts, things, examples or extra information.

Examples : 1. This is what you must do : switch off the light and lock all the doors.

2. Our three important rivers are : Ganga, Yamuna and Brahmaputra.

5. Mark of Interrogation (?) : It is placed at the end of an interrogative sentence.

Example : Has anybody seen a ghost?

6. Mark of Exclamation (!) : It is placed after an exclamatory word or sentence.

Examples : 1. Bravo! 2. How nice you are! 3. Alas!

7. Quotation Marks (" ") : They are used to enclose the actual words spoken (quoted) by a speaker. Thus, the quoted words are enclosed within quotation marks or inverted commas.

Examples : Lokmanya Tilak said, "Swaraj is my birthright and I shall have it."

8. Apostrophe (') : It is used before or after s ('s, s') to show possession. It is also used in short forms to show that letters are missing.

Examples : 1. Akbar's son was Jahangir.

2. The ladies' bags are here.

3. It's a terrible thing.

4. I can't speak about it now.

Capital Letter

A capital letter is used :

- a. To begin every new sentence.

Example : This is my book. Where is yours?

- b. To begin proper nouns and adjectives derived from proper nouns.

Example : Jeet, Vardan and Amit are Indians who live in India, and John, an Englishman lives in England.

- c. To begin every new line of a poem.

Example : What is this life if full of care,
We have not time to stand and stare?

d. To begin the first word of reported speech with quotation marks.

Example : He said, "The population of India was 143.2 crores in 2023."

e. The pronoun 'I' is always written in capital.

A Unjumbled the following and put capital letters and proper punctuation marks :

1. a cunning fox stole johns bag

The Story of Fidgety Philip

'Let me see if Philip can
Be a little gentleman;
Let me see if he is able
To sit still for once at table':
Thus Papa bade Phil behave;
And Mamma looked very grave.
But fidgety Phil,
He won't sit still;
He wriggles,
And giggles,
And then, I declare,

Swings backwards and forwards,
And tilts up his chair,
Just like any rocking-horse
'Philip! I am getting cross!'

See the naughty, restless child
Growing still more rude and wild,
Till his chair falls over quite.
Philip screams with all his might,
Catches at the cloth, but then
That makes matters worse again.
Down upon the ground they fall,
Glasses, plates, knives, forks, and all.
How Mamma did fret and frown,
When she saw them tumbling down!
And Papa made such a face!
Philip is in sad disgrace.

Where is Philip, where is he?
Fairly covered up you see!
Cloth and all are lying on him;
He has pulled down all upon him.
What a terrible to-do!
Dishes, glasses, snapped in two!
Here a knife, and there a fork!
Philip, this a cruel work.
Table all so bare, and ah!
Poor Papa, and poor Mamma
Look quite cross, and wonder how
They shall have their dinner now.

—Heinrich Hoffman

3. Why was he in such a situation? _____

III. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

Tom Paints a Fence

Tom was given the chore of whitewashing thirty yards of fence on a sunny Saturday afternoon. And what was worse— it was one of those warm summer days when everyone else was out playing ball or swimming. And there was Tom, all alone on the sidewalk with a long-handled brush and a bucket of whitewash.

He looked at the fence. It seemed enormous and he knew it would take all day to give it only one coat. Tom began to think of all the fun he had planned for the day and he felt even more sorry for himself. Soon his friends would come down the street and shuddered to think of how they would laugh to see him whitewashing a fence on such a beautiful day. There had to be a way out of this situation!

Tom emptied his pockets and looked at his worldly wealth—bits of toys, marbles and trash. He might be able to bribe someone else to help him for a while, but there wasn't nearly enough to buy a whole day of freedom. Tom thought for a while... then an inspiration burst upon him!

He picked up the brush and began to spread the whitewash slowly over the fence. In a few minutes, Ben Rogers came walking by, eating a big, juicy red apple. Tom's mouth watered at the sight of the fruit, but he kept on painting and pretended not to see or hear Ben at all.

Hey there, Tom, what's up with you? called Ben. It's too bad you have to work on a day like this. I'm just on my way to the river for a swim.

Tom looked at Ben for a moment, then said, What do you call work?

Why, isn't that work? asked Ben, pointing to the fence.

Well, maybe it is and maybe it isn't, answered Tom. All I know is that it suits me just fine.

Come on now, don't tell me you actually like it!

Like it? Well, I don't see why I shouldn't like it. It isn't everyday that a boy gets to whitewash a fence?

That put things in a new light for Ben. He stopped eating his apple and began watching Tom work. Maybe there was something to this whitewashing after all, he thought.

Hey, Tom let me try it for a while Ben asked.

No, no! protested Tom. Aunt Polly entrusted this fence to me and I can't just let anyone take over such a big job.

But Ben continued to beg Tom to let him have the privilege of whitewashing for just a little while. Tom kept refusing until Ben offered him the rest of his juicy red apple. That was what Tom had been waiting for.

Tom sat in the shade and munched the apple while Ben swished the brush back and forth, sweating at his work. As other boys came by, Tom kept trading with them, too, for a go at whitewashing the fence.

By mid-afternoon, the fence was completely whitewashed and Tom was the proud owner of all sorts of treasures. His inspiration had certainly worked. All he had to do was make his chores seem to be fun and the other boys were eager to do them for him.

A Answer the following questions in brief :

1. What work was Tom assigned to do?

2. Was the work really pleasant for Tom? How?

3. Why did Tom empty his pockets?

4. Whom did Tom trick to paint the fence and how?

Subject : Request for concession in fee

Sir/Madam

With due respect, this is to bring to your kind notice that my father is a worker in a local factory and is earning a sum of ₹ 5500 per month. He finds it difficult to support a large family of five members. My younger brother and two sisters are also studying in other schools. My father is unable to pay my fee. Due to this, I shall have to leave the studies. Kindly grant me full fee concession otherwise I might be forced to discontinue my studies.

I have been scoring the highest marks in my class for the last two years.

I have obtained 98% marks in the Annual examination this year.
I sincerely hope that you will help me.

Yours obediently

Sir

I would like to bring to the notice of the authorities through the columns of your esteemed paper towards the poor condition of the roads and streets in our locality. The roads in Krishna Nagar are in a bad shape, having pits at every step, and these pits are responsible for accidents. During the rainy season, they get filled with dirty water and become places for mosquitoes to breed in. Heaps of dust and rubbish are seen scattered everywhere. The foul smell makes it impossible for anyone to pass through the streets.

It is an alarming time for the authorities to wake up and take effective remedial steps, otherwise some epidemic might break out leading to a great loss of life.

Thanking you
Yours faithfully

Paragraph Writing

A paragraph is not a mini essay. An essay is long and has three-four paragraphs in it. It discusses a number of different points in detail. But a paragraph focuses on a single point. From the very first sentence, you begin writing about the topic. A paragraph has to be brief and clear-cut. It is not longer than 100-125 words.

In a paragraph, you can describe something, narrate an incident or express your idea about something. But you must not describe or narrate something like a newspaper reporter.

Your personal feelings also must be there. Before beginning a paragraph, write down a few questions about the topic, and answer those in the paragraph. You may also follow an outline of hints. A paragraph may be written in various kinds of ways.

Read a paragraph on Rainy Day and understand how we can write paragraphs on the same topic in three different manners.

A Rainy Day

(General)

Outline students like a rainy day — they enjoy getting wet — wading through waterlogged roads — joyful experience — enjoyable day at home also — fun and games.

Most students enjoy a rainy day — a non-stop heavy shower! The sky is covered with dark clouds. The weather is cool and damp. They get a break from the routine of school. Some of them go to school. But they know that very few children will come and it is going to be a holiday. It is great fun to wade through waterlogged streets. The youngsters enjoy the cool rain on their skin. When they come back home, their mothers scold them, but also give them hot tea or coffee. They spend the day reading storybooks, watching TV, or playing indoor games. In short, they enjoy every moment of a rainy day when they are set free. Who can blame them?

A Rainy Day

(Personal)

Outline 1. What is a rainy day? 2. How do you feel on such a day? 3. What does it mean for other people?

I do not feel happy on a rainy day. The sky is full of black clouds. Nature appears cheerless as it rains continuously. The streets are full of dirty water. I start sneezing and may catch a cold. The whole day I have to stay within the four walls of my home. It seems I am in a jail. I miss my friends at school. I call some of them over the phone. They also feel like me. I feel lonely and have nothing to do. I just sit by the window and watch people wading through knee-deep muddy water. A rainy day means trouble for everybody.

A Rainy Day

(Particular incident and personal feeling)

Outline caught in heavy shower — soaked — waterlogged streets — fun with friends — scolding from mother — care and attention later.

Yesterday, I was going to school with my friends. The sky was dark and cloudy. I did not carry an umbrella. We wished for some rain. Almost immediately big, heavy raindrops began to fall. Within a few seconds, a heavy shower began. We became totally wet and ran to the school. Reaching school, we found countless boys and many teachers also completely drenched. The Headmaster declared it a rainy day. I gladly went home with my friends. It was still raining. We waded through waterlogged roads and shouted in joy. We enjoyed the rain so much! Reaching home, I got a good scolding from mother. But she wiped my hair, gave me dry clothes and a glass of hot milk also!

Now, read and understand the following paragraphs on different topics :

A Street Accident

Outline How do street accidents happen? — What kind of accident did you see? — What happened as a result of the accident? — What was your reaction?

These days most car drivers like to drive at high speed. They do not care for other cars and people. This causes many street accidents. Just yesterday I saw a horrible accident on Gandhi Street. A small car was coming at high speed. A bus was turning left at that time from the side-road. The car driver did not slow down. The car went straight and hit the right side of the bus. Its front was totally smashed up. The driver died on the spot. He was only about 25 years old. I was horrified to see his body covered with blood. I was so deeply shocked that I could not sleep well that night. A promising young life ended due to carelessness.

My School

(Outline/Hints) the name of the school — its main features — facilities for students — teachers - management — quality and nature of the students — the school on the whole.

I read in Class V in New Horizon School, Meerut. It is only ten years old, but quite famous. It has a five-storeyed building and a large, green playground. The classrooms are big and airy. There are only thirty students in each section. There are also three science laboratories, a big library and an auditorium. We take part in games and sports regularly. Activities like drama, debate, quiz, singing, dancing and 'sit and draw' are held in the auditorium. Our teachers are very active and take good care of the students. It is a secondary school. More than two thousand girls and boys study here from Nursery to Class X. The Principal is strict, but kind. The students are well-mannered and attentive. They enjoy all-round development here.

The Most Important Day of My Life

Outline/Hints The reason for the day's great importance in your life — your feelings on the occasion — the happenings on the day — others' behaviour and reactions.

It happened last year. I stood first in all sections of Class IV. I had studied very hard. I was sure that I would come first. The vital day of Prize Distribution arrived. I waited near the dais. I felt a bit nervous. But when my name was called, I went up smartly. I bowed before the President and the Headmaster. Then I received my book prizes from the Chief Guest, a famous poet. The President patted me on the back. My parents blessed me. Some classmates showed me the 'V' sign. I will always remember the day. I achieved my dream that day. It was indeed the most important day so far in my life .

Write a paragraph in about 100-125 words on each of the following topics. Outlines are given for your help :

1. The Summer Season

Time and months of the year — duration — description — do you like it? why? — anything bad about it? — what is it? — necessity of summer.

2. The Diwali

What is it? — when is it celebrated? — what is special about Diwali? — do you love it? — why?

3. Your Best Friend

Who is he/she? — his/her nature and character — why do you like him/her?

4. Holidays

The meaning of a holiday — vacation — how to enjoy holidays — proper use of holidays.

5. An Indian Farmer

How does an Indian farmer work? — what is his condition? — why and how is a farmer our friend? — how can we help farmers?

6. The Elephant

Description of an elephant — food habits — nature — helpful to man — why and how we must help wild elephants.

7. Books

Our best friends — storehouses of knowledge — essential for education — different kinds of books — we should honour books.

Story Writing

While writing a story, keep the following points in your mind :

- ◆ Give a title to your story.
- ◆ Write your story in the past tense as you are narrating an event that has already taken place.
- ◆ Introduce characters as they are already given to you in the outline and give them names.
- ◆ Use contraction and interjections in conversation.
- ◆ Be clear about the plot, for it must be developed in a coherent manner.
- ◆ Choose the words carefully to create an appropriate atmosphere or lighten the affect you are aiming at.

A Write the stories based on these outlines :

1. Johny and Tina...bought ice cream...moving on the road...ice cream in their hands...talking to each other...a big boy...from the side...moving behind them quietly...comes close to them...both of them...of the big boy...suddenly the big boy...pushes...both of...fell down...ice cream also...a policeman saw...he came rushing...caught the big boy...helped both...to stand.
