A Short Story of Creativity and Sketching ...

"Art washes away from the soul the dust of everyday."

The essentials of art are Line, Shape, Tone and more. They are often used together.

Lines

Lines are fundamental elements used to define shapes, forms and textures. They can vary in length, thickness, direction and style, allowing artists to convey a wide range of visual information. Different types of lines include:

Horizontal

Vertical

Diagonal

Curved

Spiral

Cross Hatching

Shape

When a line crosses itself or intersects with other lines to enclose a space, it creates a shape. Shape is two-dimensional and has height and width, but no depth. Shapes can be either geometric, like a circle, square or triangle, or irregular.

Tone

Tone in drawing refers to the degree of lightness or darkness within an image. This could be a shade or how dark or light a colour appears. Tones are created by the way light falls on a 3D object. The parts of the object on which the light is strongest, are called highlights and the darker areas are called shadows. There will be a range of tones in between the highlights and the shadows.

When we mix white colour in any other colour, then it is light value of that colour. When black colour is mixed with that colour, then this is called dark value of that colour.

COLOUR

Colour is a versatile tool that can serve multiple purposes beyond simply adding the visual applied. It is the element of art that is produced when light, striking an object, is reflected back to the eye. Colour has three main characteristics: hue (the name of the colour, such as red, green, blue, etc.), value (how light or dark it is) and intensity (how bright or dull it is). Colours defined as Primary colours are those which cannot be mixed in pigment from other hues, while secondary colours are those which are directly mixed from combinations of primary colours. Further combinations of primary and secondary colours create tertiary hues.

Colour Wheel

It is a visual representation of colours arranged in a circular format.

- Colours that are next to each other on the colour wheel, are called harmonious.

- Complementary colours are colours that are opposite to each other on the colour wheel. When complementary colours are used together, they create contrast. Adding a colour's complimentary colour, will usually make a darker shade. This is often preferable to adding black.
- Warm colours are colours on the red side of the wheel. These are red and include orange, yellow, brown and tan.
- Cool colours are colours on the blue side of the wheel. These are blue and include green, violet and most greys.
- Black, white and grey are called neutral colours.

PERSPECTIVE

Perspective in drawing refers to the technique of representing three dimensional surfaces. The graphic art is an approximate representation, on a flat surface (such as paper), of an image as it is seen by the eye. The two most characteristic features of perspective are that objects are smaller as their distance from the observer increases; that they are foreshortened, i.e. that the size of an object's dimensions along the line of sight is relatively shorter than dimensions across the line of sight. Perspective drawings have a horizon line, which is often implied. Any perspective representation of a scene that includes parallel lines, has one or more vanishing points in a perspective drawing.

PROPORTION

Proportion in drawing refers to the relative size, scale and arrangement of elements within an artwork. It is the ratio of comparison of one part with another or it describes the relationship between objects or parts of a whole.

DRAWING STUFFS

Different types of stuffs are used while drawing any figure. Some of them are :

Graphite Pencils

Drawing Pencils are a basic requirement of any graphics course. You need a number ranging from 2B to 2H. These letters refer to the hardness of the pencil lead.

Drawing Paper

A good drawing paper must be durable enough to take repeated eraser without serious damage to the surface.

Brushes
